About me

As a junior web developer with real-life work experience, I am very familiar with many technologies such as React, Next.js and Typescript not to mention HTML, CSS and Javascript, but I also have some experience with other languages like Python and Java. Working with a team, helped me improve my Git skills to keep a repository organized. I love to learn new technologies and improve my knowledge, as a matter of fact, I'm recently trying to expand my knowledge with the framework Angular and Jest, a testing framework.

Experiences

Ping Srl

Letter of recommendation

I had the opportunity to work for 3 months for Ping Srl, a web consultant company. When I started working there, I immediately started contributing to a project for a React Web Application aimed at promoting health products.

After that, I started working on an order entry website for an international bike company. To write the majority of the code for this project I used Typescript and Next.js. I implemented the authentication with Next Auth and handled the logic for the user's cart, including orders and checkout.

In another project, a browser extension, I implemented the payment logic using Paddle.js. On a final note, I also created most of the interface of a website for a gardening e-commerce, using Bootstrap and Scss.
